This is a fun, ongoing workshop facilitated by Erma Bombeck Award-winning humorist and author Mike Ball, where you will find exactly the information and support you need as an aspiring writer. Registration begins two weeks prior to each session.

I Can’t Read That! Tips for Translating Foreign Genealogy Documents
Tuesday, March 23, 3pm, Zoom
Many family history researchers eventually will find documents in a foreign language that pertain to their family. Don’t neglect them simply because you don’t read the language. Join Mark Mullinax, Genealogy and Local History Librarian at Brighton District Library, as he shows tricks and tools which can help translate that information. Registration begins Tuesday, March 9.

Genealogy Software: What’s Right For You?
Tuesday, April 27, 3pm, Zoom
Do you have lots of information about your ancestors but don’t know which computer program to use? There are several options available for free or to purchase that can be used to organize your information, print genealogy charts and reports, and share your family tree online. Join Mark Mullinax, Brighton District Library’s Genealogy and Local History Librarian as he demonstrates several of the most popular options. Registration begins Tuesday, April 13.

The Family Plot: Cemetery Research for Genealogy
Tuesday, May 25, 3pm, Zoom
More than just a burial site, cemeteries can provide valuable information for the genealogist. Tombstones can provide information about the deceased including birth and death dates, places of origin, spouses and more. Join Mark Mullinax, Genealogy and Local History Library at Brighton District Library, as he discusses the various types of cemetery records available and learn tips for finding your ancestor’s final resting place. Registration begins Tuesday, May 11.

Women in the American Revolution: A Five Part Series
Thursdays, May 20, 27 and June 3, 10 & 17, 7-8pm, Zoom

The revolutionary war was fought on battlefields, in forests, and on the homefront—and the contributions of American women shaped the fight at every turn. They did this in every way imaginable, and while some prospered and thrived when the war came, others faltered and fell. The incredible spectrum of female participation in America’s founding conflict defies easy categorization and reminds us that the legacy of the revolution for American women was not simple, single, or remotely cut and dried.

Lecture one explores the life of Jane Mecom, the beloved but beggared sister of Benjamin Franklin whose rollercoaster ride through the American Revolution illuminates the experiences of other women on society’s bottom ranks. Lecture two pushes deep into the war itself to reconstruct the wartime experiences of Deborah Sampson, the 21-year-old weaver who disguised herself as a man to serve 17 distinguished months in George Washington’s Continental Army. Lecture three tells the story of Molly Brant, the Native Mohawk woman who spent the war trying to hold together the fragile military alliance between the Iroquois League and the British Army. Lecture four then follows the story of the American Revolution into the Early Republic, using the life of Maine midwife Martha Ballard to understand how women’s lives changed—and stayed the same—after the patriots won the war. The final lecture pulls several of these strands together by exploring the legacy of the revolutionary settlement for white women up through the 1848 Seneca Falls woman’s rights convention, the Civil War, and beyond. Registration for session 1 begins Thursday May 6. Each subsequent session will register 1 week prior.

Richard Bell is Professor of History at the University of Maryland and author of the new book Stolen: Five Free Boys Kidnapped into Slavery and their Astonishing Odyssey Home which was shortlisted for the 2020 George Washington Prize and the 2020 Harriet Tubman Prize. He has held major research fellowships at Yale, Cambridge, and the Library of Congress and is the recipient of the National Endowment of the Humanities Public Scholar award. He serves as a Trustee of the Maryland Center for History and Culture, as an elected member of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, and as a fellow of the Royal Historical Society.

A Bite of History: Cornish Pasties
Wednesday, May 5, 7-8pm, Zoom

Join us as we look into the celebrated history of the Cornish Pasty then learn how to prepare and cook your own! The Cornish Pasty descends from a broader family of medieval meat pies. Discover the connections to the Cornish tin, and how these meat and vegetable pasties became a staple meal for miners in the Upper Peninsula beginning in the 1840s. Registration begins Wednesday, April 21.

Adult Book Discussions

- The groups are led by library staff, and welcome everyone.
- The meetings will take place via Zoom. A day before the meeting, you will be emailed a link and password to join the discussion. (Check your spam folder if you haven’t received your email.)

Examining Kentucky Pack Horse Librarian Scrapbooks
Wednesday, March 17, 7-8pm, Zoom
Professor Jason Vance from Middle Tennessee State University will share findings from his research on scrapbooks created as part of the Kentucky Pack Horse Libraries project that ran from 1936-1943. Pack horse librarians assembled these scrapbooks using local recipes, hand-drawn quilt patterns, and clippings from donated magazines. The scrapbooks then became part of the pack horse libraries’ circulating collections. Registration begins Wednesday, February 24.

A Bite of History: Pack Horse Librarian Recipes
Wednesday, March 24, 7-8pm, Zoom
Join us as we dive into authentic recipes traced back from the Pack Horse Librarians. Three recipes will be provided and demonstrated, including Pickled Chicken, Blackberry Jelly, and Potato Cakes. Registration begins Wednesday, March 10.

A Bourbon Adventure with Phil
Wednesday, April 21, 7-8pm, Zoom
Phil Kollin has a lot to say about whiskey. He has things to say about whiskey’s colorful history, the fascinating process of distilling and the stories behind each bottle. He wants to share tales about the spirit’s lore, the unyielding appeal, and the legendary and compelling characters behind each brand. He wants to talk about the myths that everyone thinks they know to be true (but usually aren’t). And Phil wants to talk about the long journey that bourbon whiskey endured to become America’s native spirit. Registration begins Wednesday, April 7.

Zoom with Kim Michele Richardson, Author of The Book Woman of Troublesome Creek
Thursday, April 8
7-8pm, Zoom
1930s Packhorse Librarians, the Great Depression, and the “blue people” of Kentucky inspired Kim Michele Richardson’s bestselling novel, The Book Woman of Troublesome Creek. Kim will discuss the book, her writing process, and answer attendee questions. Registration begins Thursday, March 25.
